

iSON Group Nominated for 2018 GLOMO Awards

February 2018, Lagos, Nigeria - iSON Group, and Girl Effect, who run a joint programme called Girls Connect, have been shortlisted for Best Mobile Innovation for Women in Emerging Markets, under the social good category of the 2018 Glomo Awards. Winners of the awards will be presented at Mobile World Congress, which takes place 26 February – 1 March in Barcelona.

The GSMA's Global Mobile Awards (The GLOMO Awards) recognise and celebrate all contributions made to the evolving and developing mobile industry. The organizers of the awards have promised that this year will be memorable for the all the nominees.

Speaking on the nomination, the Founder and Chairman of iSON Group, Ramesh Awtaney, said; "I am honoured to be shortlisted on the Social Good category. This is indeed an affirmation of our excellent contributions to the digital economy and mobile industry. As an organization, we are continually committed to impacting lives. We have invested in developing local systems and empowering local talent through skill development centres. It is thrilling to see the ways our digital technology can make the world a better place."

According to Michael O'Hara, Chief Marketing Officer, GSMA, the GLOMOs offer organisations and individuals from across the world an opportunity to showcase how mobile technology continues to inspire new levels of ingenuity, innovation and achievement. "As always, the calibre of entries is extremely high, so to be shortlisted for the GLOMOs today is quite an achievement in itself. We wish the very best of luck to all nominees and look forward to unveiling the winners at Mobile World Congress", he said.
